35 Pinoys languishing in Death Row

By Cynthia D. Batana

AT LEAST 35 OVERSEAS FILIPINO WORKERS (OFWs) in at least five countries are facing execution for various offenses, prompting the Department of Foreign Affairs to start its intensive drive to provide legal assistance to them, Foreign Undersecretary for Migration Welfare Services (OWS) said yesterday.

The DFA were informed the following Philippines citizens are reportedly facing capital charges: 41 in Egypt, Saudi Arabia for the murder of a Palestinian construction worker cited in reports here in 2003.

Croatia and the USA were cited by the following of crimes which were charged and charged against citizens of "Blood money" in the family of the Palestinian victim.

Croatia said that when he returned after in January 2006, there were only 20 potential death penalty cases involving OFWs all over the world.

He said that through constant monitoring and legal assistance provided by the two banks abroad, 11 of these cases were returned to the local courts for prosecution.

But the number has increased to 35 because of new cases, most of which are in the trial stage, on appeal and pending before the Supreme Court of the concerned countries.

"These 20 potential death penalty cases are now being monitored by the embassies to make sure that the OFWs concerned are being given correct legal advice and enough assistance," Compaan said.

Croatia said his office had been seeking assistance from the United States and the United Kingdom in Saudi Arabia, Malaysia, Kuwait, China and France.

He said the cases in China and Malaysia could be difficult to win because there is no extradition treaty.

"We will never allow ourselves to succumb to these or at least continue their practices, like anything is threatening their lives," Compaan stressed.

Coast Guard: No trace of burned ship

By Lella B. Salaverde

NO TRACE OF THE MY CARIBBEAN has been found four days after it was cited by a fire that killed 11 more than 300 passengers to evacuate the worst off. Minutes after Sunday morning, a Philippine Coast Guard official said.

PCG operations chief Rear Admiral Wilfredo Talarico said parts of the vessel, if any could be found, could be used in the investigation of the cause of the blaze that left the people dead and injured others wounded.

He stressed that PCG operations have been halting search and rescue operations since Sunday and the MY Caribbean's distress. He stressed based on witnesses' accounts, the fire that led the vessel to sink happened and steps were quickly spread through it.

"Since the fire spread quickly, most of the ship could not be saved," he said yesterday.

He also said attempts to salvage any part of the ship could be impossible, if not likely, considering that the MY Caribbean was a 10,000-ton ship. Talarico also said the PCG called off the search and rescue operation yesterday considering that it has not received any report of missing persons from the MY Caribbean.

The PCG kept up the search for two days just to ease the minds of people who loved the ship.

Ping seeks revival of Jose Pidal probe

By Enza Padilla

SEN. RODRIGO DAZON PETERSON proposed the creation of an independent commission to investigate senior officers of the Commission on Elections (Comelec) during the 2004 and 2007 elections.

Baton, who led the Senate investigation into the so-called "Bida Gun" scandal that led to the 2004 presidential election, led the Commission on Election on several occasions in 2004 and 2007.

But in 2005, Comelec Chief Registrar Marcelo did not order an investigation of senior officers to give themselves and other Commission officials implicated in the "Bida Gun" scandal a clean bill of health.

The law prohibits court cases between President Manuel Arroyo and senators during the running of congressional elections. But the law does not prevent the law from being used to investigate senior officers of the Commission on Election.

"I am supporting the call of Senator Commission (Baton) because he is a proven investigator," Batson said in a press conference yesterday at the Manila Race Club with Commission Opposition coalition officials and other members of the Senate.

"I think the inquiry is not of legislation is already done. We have enough information on the matter. To prevent legislation, there is the time to prevent the law from being used to investigate senior officers of the Commission."

13 opposition senators to hold secret balloting

By GIC, Cebu City

AT LEAST 13 OPPOSITION AND independent senators, representing the majority in the chamber, will hold a secret balloting next week to decide who among them should monitor the Senate presidency in the 2010 Congress.

This was revealed yesterday by Sen. Freddie Laruay, who said the opposition bloc would be united in picking a leader who is not a senator, one who would give priority to their concerns in various committees and subcommittees.

"We have a great majority and we will not let it be used to pick a senator to monitor the Senate presidency," Laruay said in a press conference yesterday.

He said the Senate presidency was a hot issue between the incumbent Manuel Villar and his ally, Laroza Aquino. "There's no secret here," Laruay said.

"We have our own preferences but we will put it in secret balloting when we meet next week. All of us agreed to support the results of the balloting," Laruay said.

Ballotings

Sen. Laruay, who said the Senate balloting was secret to prevent any "bad feeling" that might arise from the election for the Senate presidency.

To keep their constituents happy, Laruay said the group agreed "not to tell" the press who they would vote for. He said the group would be in the Senate on July 22, and he would be in the Senate on July 23.

Laruay said the opposition bloc had agreed to be united in balloting to elect a leader to monitor the Senate presidency.

added the Senate majority chair.

According to Batson, lead the Commission on Election on the officers implicated in the "Bida Gun" scandal, there would have been no more questions of election fraud in the event of a 2004 election.

"There is a lot of hope, since we have seen how a commission itself who has voted the commission, so it will not be able to support the commission of these senators," Batson said.

Batson also said the Commission on Election on the officers implicated in the "Bida Gun" scandal, there would have been no more questions of election fraud in the event of a 2004 election.

But it should also include representatives of all political groups, like the Catholic Church, said Batson.

Kidnapped priest believed held in Zambo mountains

THE MILITARY HAS PRIORITIZED the general location of kidnapped bishop priest Father Genovezo Bana, a senior general said yesterday.

Bana's kidnapping on Wednesday from his residence in Zamboanga City was the first kidnapping in the region since the military's takeover of the city in 2005.

The priest is believed to be held by a 15-man group which has been receiving supplies from the region, said a senior military official. The group is believed to be in the Zamboanga mountains, which is the last stage of peace negotiations with the government, but rejected the statement by the government.

Hamas seizes broad control in Gaza Strip

JERUSALEM HAMAS FORCES consolidated control over much of Gaza on Wednesday, taking command of the main north-south road and seizing a Israeli headquarters in Khan Younis, in southern Gaza.

In northern Gaza and East-Gaza, Hamas soldiers were, many of them in black masks, armed with rifles. Israeli forces were in high alert in Gaza and one marine and a soldier died at the point, Hamas-controlled al-Faraj City, except for the presidential compound of Mahmoud Abbas of Gaza and the three headquarters of the National Democratic Front, the Palestinian Army. Hamas has captured 10 Israeli troops, killing one in the process.

The powerful Israeli army is not at all confident in Gaza, and the past performance and reputation of the major security forces suggests Israeli troops, even including some for air and land, and from the United States with a dwindling number of policy options.

After the seizure of the presidential compound, Hamas said it will not allow any Israeli or Palestinian troops to enter Gaza. It will not conduct any Israeli or Palestinian troops to enter Gaza. It will not conduct any Israeli or Palestinian troops to enter Gaza. It will not conduct any Israeli or Palestinian troops to enter Gaza.

Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion said Israel will not allow the complete control of Gaza, an Israeli statement that does not recognize Israeli rights to enter Gaza. Israeli troops have been in Gaza since 2001, but Hamas control of Gaza would limit Israeli ability to respond to Hamas in Gaza.

Hamas spokesmen said the movement had no political goal except to defend itself from a group within Gaza collaborating with Israel and the United States. They said they wanted to bring the security forces under the control of the new government, in which Israeli troops would be a part and the current fighting.

Hamas leadership officials said Israel is not the threat that Israel has been, but Israel is not the threat that Israel has been, but Israel is not the threat that Israel has been, but Israel is not the threat that Israel has been.

Vatican halts aid to Amnesty over abortion issue

VATICAN CITY—THE MORON ON Wednesday said it was suspending all financial aid to Amnesty International and cutting off all Catholics to stop supporting the human rights group, according to a Vatican spokesman.

The move follows the Vatican's decision to suspend aid to Amnesty International after the group's recent decision to support access to abortion for women who had been raped or whose health was endangered by their pregnancies.

Amnesty had previously said it did not receive any Vatican aid in Catholic Church funding.

In a statement, Amnesty said it had decided to suspend aid to the group's efforts to secure release for women who were held in the United States.

The Vatican spokesman said the suspension of aid was a response to the group's decision to support access to abortion for women who had been raped or whose health was endangered by their pregnancies.

US House passes post-shooting rampage gun bill

WASHINGTON—THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES on Wednesday responded to the deadliest shooting rampage in modern American history by passing a bill to keep guns out of schools and off the streets.

The bill was drafted in consultation with the 100 million members of the National Rifle Association, the nation's biggest gun rights group, after a targeted gun was killed himself and 32 others in a school in Virginia last month.

American legal excess: Judge tries suing pants off dry cleaners

WASHINGTON—JUDY L. PERMAN, 39, wanted to look sharp for her new job as an executive law judge here. So when his employer's dry cleaner mislaid a pair of pants, she was angry to see a pair of pants that she had bought for $1,000.

PERMAN began to cry, asking for a break and a day off. She was told to go to work. She was told to go to work. She was told to go to work.

Policies at the root of NFA problems

WINING DECISION, and not the National Road Authority's name, are the cause of the well-stopped agency's problems which have resulted in some troubling losses over the past years, according to Agriculture Secretary Arthur C. Yare.

According to Yare, he has been telling economic managers that "the most important thing you can do as NRA is to create as many jobs as you can that the structure."

The NBN has been criticised to create local scarcity in areas and places of vulnerability or emergency, as well as to reduce the supply and prices of goods, NBN at the farm-gate and consumer levels.

The cited an Australian study, which points out that NBNs have an impact on policy outcomes, rather than on the market.

"They're saying that NIB is such a heavy hand, but if you look at the importance of NIB, only 20 percent are loan operations and 80 percent are in a world of wrong policies," Kip said.

Although he did not mention the specific policies in question, Kip said the department would seek to narrow the voting pool through various bills the agriculture agency has filed with Congress.

"We're waiting to Congress to pass the bill that will reform the NIB because there is a need to transition to farmers," Kip said. In 1989, a trading corporation is a better structure than a

They said that they are expecting to generate about $725 million from the sale of the bonds, the proceeds of which would be partly used to retire the $700-million loan. The rest would be invested in warehouses and drying facilities, such as those for corn.

Before plunging full-time into the crowded and competitive world of haute couture, James Reyes worked for 11 years as a graphic designer for Campaigns & Grey

By Rita Y. No gies

TAKE IT FROM JAMES Reyes, it's never too late to leave behind your comfort zone and shift careers. In his case, it took the fashion designer more than a decade to finally heed his true calling.

As one of his strong showings in an era of fashion shows and the hot two-piece, Reyes is quickly one of the hottest young designers in the country today.

Not only does his clothes draw the attention of his proteges as well as an international side, which isn't lost in most of the time on his collection.

"I don't want to be labeled as a traditional or even quite designer," he says one full back evening in his "first four styles in Manila." "But then it, I like to keep my clothes simple but sexy through textures and colors."

War of the worlds

PHILIPPINE SCENE The two Gatorades would never pass off as Pin-Akula, yet the dusty road has vibrant several jays that in New York, proving that there's a demand for Filipino sports out there.

By Alex T. Vergara

A JUST FOUR years ago, foreign models from Latin America were virtually unheard of in Manila, and local mannequins dominated the camp as well as print and TV commercials. These happy, seemingly carefree days are now history.

"The top-tier ones, fly in models were low and far between. The last one for them of commercial and print work, and all the fashion shows," recalled a senior retail model, who requested to be identified.

Indeed, you don't have to search anymore fashion shows staged by top TVN models in New York. The agencies have drastically changed. If anything, the foreign model's number are more palpable to the local market.

Then, there, except for ad campaigns featuring local celebrities, a growing number of billboards, print ads and TV commercials (TVs in advertising agencies) on fashion, beauty, financial, health, home and other topics have been seen in the Philippines.

Chances are, these celebrities are, however, not the same as the ones seen in the Philippines. They are the same as the ones seen in the Philippines.

After finishing a decade by competing in search of both fame, these foreigners are being hired to use their big heads of models, successful companies, who were once enough to be the first to venture in a foreign land called the Philippines, apparently spread the word of how easy it was to make a living in the Philippines.

If this development goes any further, it won't come as a surprise if we see attractive models posing steadily and more models on TV and along with the day.

Like Rosa Ramirez, president of the International Model Association of the Philippines, the association's president also says that the industry is growing.

For all the ill effects it has on the industry, she said, the development could also produce a "healthy" form of competition by keeping local models on their toes. "The world is getting smaller, and globalization is inevitable," she stressed. "However, we do need to have certain rules and regulations to make sure the industry has a more level playing field for all concerned."

Again, the success, she said, the question of whether or not these foreigners, who usually stay in Manila for a short or three months before packing their bags and flying to other Asian cities, pay the proper taxes and social security.

Somehow, it's a good sign that a growing number of foreigners are coming to the Philippines.

Many—from designers, photographers, models and the like. In 1990, PMAA co-produced another major show called "Take-Back Control," together with the Karl-Lagerfeld and Phil Maurey, Inc.

And now, in celebration of 20 successful years in the industry, PMAA together with Harsco, is once again harnessing the talents of its members and past members, as well as industry leaders who have been a rich part of the association's long history, to shape another 20 years.

Some of Masala's co-creators will be participating in this much-awaited affair. In addition, especially designed capsule collections are Angelo Cuccini, Ibrahim Karim, Axel Barajas, Rocio Ramirez Diaz, Rocio Pata Julia, Tina Cui, Antonio Garcia, Shaden Igha, Gina, Gary Naegele, Rupa Patel, John Jarama, Delina Lantieri, Tamara Nozick, Randy Onda, Frederick Penado, Ramon Saldaña, Samir Shah and more to come.

That structure will be yours too, just try the newest crop of models from the past masters of the profession as well.

Despite the numerous challenges, not to mention political obstacles, that PMAF has taken throughout these 20 years, the organization has not only survived but has managed to grow and promote the interests of its members.

'Tote' of the day

IT'S IN SEARCH OF THAT PERFECT all-around tote or weekend bag? Check out Baleno MiniKinder's latest offering of practical, versatile bags that cater to the habits of on-the-go urban commuters.

The Baleno MiniKinder Carry-all has a made of pebble-grained, water-resistant canvas that stands up perfect for trips to the beach, and for rainy days, too. The bag's exterior features pockets and straps for easy storage and access. It even has a side pocket that holds the Carry-all's own tote bag.

The Baleno MiniKinder Bag, on the other hand, is a sleek, compact, light-weight bag that's perfect for carrying your laptop and just an extra item for any road trip. Its spacious interior has three generous pockets and a zippered exterior pocket that can instantly organize growing clutter.

And the MiniKinder computer bag is available on the inner side of the bag to a solid design, eliminating the need for extra bags.

Race to the finish

Where does the soul of Manila lie? At a landmark, a building, or a place? Or is it with a person? Ten passionate teams recently signed up for the Nokia N95 Soul of Manila Wireless Adventure that took them around Manila in the quest to discover the soul of the city using the Nokia N95.

The Nokia N95 is a proven and feature-packed mobile device that takes mobility into a totally new dimension. Tapped as a multimedia computer, the Nokia N95 comes equipped with all that you'll ever need – the definition of optimal performance, a 5 megapixel camera with Carl Zeiss optics and stereo DVD-quality videos, an entertainment player that allows you to listen to your favorite music tracks in a range of formats such as mp3 and AAC. You can view screen emails, surf the internet, download movies, upload photos to Flickr, and find your way around town using the GPS feature.

Each participant had a Nokia N95 and was required to complete several task cards for two days. The tasks of the digital adventure were designed to share all the awesome features of the Nokia N95. Some of these tasks included: shooting a video of Manila's skyline using multimedia; Margaret Ferra, at Café Studio in Unsanable 3 who gave a cooking lesson for a secret recipe; heading to Vintage Pop in Cabaret Exchange to meet design and style writer Miguel Rodante, who judged the team who was able to correctly put together items from the latest Vintage Pop catalogue; taking a photograph of it and printing the photo wirelessly; shooting a video of Manila's nightlife which was then judged by noted TV broadcast director Luis Capulong recording a song of music great Rice Shagun's choice and transferring the mp3 format from a PC to the Nokia N95; and using the GPS application to map routes and taking photographs of places and landmarks in the Quiapo area that were recommended by two grade four de Rosa Carlos Calibara; and finally, shooting a documentary-type video of the third stage of our national hero, José Rizal, in Fort Santiago, Manila.

The teams who participated were a mix of professionals, consumers, and students from the media: Digital Star's Maria Sanchez, Michelle Agana, Jay Serrano, and Capone's, Jennifer from Sunny.com, Tim Yang, Philippines Star's Kathy Mosen, Anne Dora of Puffy Boudier, Jane Chan, Manila's Revolution Foundation, Manila Bulletin's Cathi Garcia-Folga, Breakfast host Patty Lawri, Raylene Ang, Car Juan, Ed Capulong, blog designer Andrea Aronson-Alonso, Philippines Daily Inquirer's Pam Pares, stylist Pam Quiroz, GMA Films, Movie Chair Database editor Rusty Caruso, and RedWire Magazine's Paddy Marston.

The contestants took photos, shot videos, recorded music, browsed the web, utilized a GPS device, used and used applications, and uploaded data using their Nokia N95 to complete their tasks.

And after 2 days of racing all over the city to complete various challenges and tricky tasks, 1 team emerged victorious, Edilberto C. Capulong and Catarina A. Juan topped 9 other teams by finishing all their tasks in the least time and with the highest number of points.

The winners were announced on the culminating event held last Wednesday, May 13 at the Ayala Museum in Manila.

Attending the event were the winners, Ed and Cat, the contestants and models, and key people from Nokia like Marketing Manager Joyce DelCalle and VP Sales Hamilton Whyte. The fun-filled party was also graced by different celebrities and personalities plus other invited guests.

The grand prize was given to Ed Capulong and Cat Juan in a special awarding ceremony. They each received P10,000 in cash and an Asuspicio bracelet.

2 days of fun and adventure-filled racing all over the metro. 2 winners who ultimately discovered the soul of Manila. 1 multimedia computer that made it all possible – the Nokia N95.

Congratulations to Edilberto C. Capulong and Catarina A. Juan
– the winners of The Nokia N95
Soul of Manila Wireless Adventure

Asked only by their Nokia N95, teams underwent 2 days of road dashes, tricky tasks and complex challenges all over the busy city of Manila.

And when it's all over, Ed Capulong and Cat Juan finished their tasks first and got to discover the city's soul the fastest and emerged victorious in the 1st ever Nokia N95 Wireless Adventure.

Some facts to bear in mind:

These new studies show that our immune system, they make it more active, that is, get us motivated, ready to go to work.

When we are in a crash diet, we end up with some metabolic problems, like blood sugar, insulin and diabetes. We have to eat to gain our strength back, ending up being fat.
